

66, 233; national identity, 48; nationalism in history textbooks, 83; nationalism vs. communist ideology, 2; national unification, 231; Northern Expedition, 181; and North Korea's nuclear weapon crisis, 51–52; nuclear weapons facilities, 45; partnership with U.S., Japan, 232; "patriotism education", 183; political liberalization, 31; post-Cold War, 168, 190; rapprochement with West, 30, 45; reaction to modernization, 112; reaction to Western imperialism, 112; and Russo/Soviet-Japanese territorial dispute, 223; Taiwan issue, 168, 175–77; textbook production, 104, 105; as U.S. ally in "global war on terror", 215; as U.S. bilateral trading partner, 209; and U.S.-Japanese alliance, 175–76; as U.S. rival, 210; xenophobic nationalism, 187; and Yalta Agreement, 229; and Yasukuni Shrine controversy, 125–26, 129, 130, 139; 171; 180

China Can Say No, 184

China Radio International, 103

Chinese Communist Party: censorship by, 105; vs. Chiang Kai-shek's nationalists, 182; and establishment of Red China, 209; growing insufficiency of, 184; Japanese imperialism, role of, 183; leadership changes, 209, 238; vs. protest movements, 139; relations with Soviet Union, 231–32; Sino-Japanese War and, 49, 182; survival of, and economic development, 188

Chinese historical memory, 183, 194, 200

Chinese nationalism: and anti-American sentiment, 184, 186; and Chinese Communist Party, 2, 49; and economic backwardness, 185; and end of Manchu Dynasty, 181; Japan as primary target of, 168; and Japanese imperialism, 181, 228; vs. Japanese provocations, 240; Japan's Twenty-One Demands and, 180; under Jiang Zemin, 180; vs. Korean/Japanese nationalism, 187; and May Fourth Movement, 181; middle class and, 187; and Northern Expedition, 181; and "patriotism education", 183; and Shandong Province, 181; as supplement to communist ideology, 183; and Western imperialism, 181; xenophobic, 187; and Yasukuni Shrine visits, 185

Chinese reunification, 175

Chirac, Jacques, 26

Chosun dynasty, 107–8

Chun Doo-hwan, 45–46, 111, 195

Chung Dong-young, 238

Churchill, Winston, 223

Class-A war criminals: "crimes against peace" charges, 122; crimes committed by, 61; Japanese attitudes towards, 73; Korean perspective on, 199; release of by Tokyo Military Tribunal, 123; Shigemitsu, Mamoru, 60; and Sino-Japanese relations, 171; in Yasukuni Shrine controversy, 72, 74, 122, 129, 139

Class-B/C war criminals, 61, 122

Clinton, Bill, 133, 176, 209, 214, 215

Cold War: and Class-A war criminal treatment, 123; communists vs. "free world", 1; economic growth of Japan during, 193; ideological conflict during, 190; institutional structure in Asia, 30; Japanese attitudes towards Soviet Union during, 225; Japanese history issue, 30, 62; Japanese nationalism during, 166; Japanese political situation during, 60; Japanese pre-war leaders during, 60; Japanese sentiments vs. Soviet Union, 225; and Japanese victimizer/victims, 54; Japan's strategic significance, 209; Korean security concerns, 190; nationalist sentiment, 190; Russo/Soviet-Japanese territorial dispute during, 224; South Korea-Japanese relations during, 193; South Korean nationalism during, 193; and structure of Korea, 194; United States and East Asia during, 193; U.S.-Japanese alliance, 60; and U.S. vs. communist bloc, 208; and war memories, 54

Cold War, end of. see also Post-Cold War era: changes to Japanese politics, 32, 131; and East Asia, 1; and Japanese claims vs. Russia, 233–34; and Japanese legacy, 32

Comfort women. see also Kono statement, 142–62; Asian Women's Fund, 32, 64–65, 148, 149, 158, 198; comfort stations, 149–50, 154–57; Committee of Parliamentarians to Think about Japan's Future and Historical Education, 64; and East Asian nationalism, 2; estimates of number, 157–58; as gender issue, 212; as historical memory issue, 63; Honda resolution, 49, 143–44, 147, 213; institutional rape school of thought, 142, 145–47, 155, 152153; issue, and conservatives, 143–44; issue, United States attitudes on, 210–13; Japanese responsibility, 131; Japanese apologies for, 102, 131; Japanese military culpability, 153; in Japanese textbooks, 103; Japanese responsibility, 157; Kono statement school of thought, 142, 147, 152; Korea vs. Japan on, 64; McDougal Report, 145, 147, 155, 157; military brothels school of thought, 142, 146–47, 149–50, 153, 155; vs. North Korean abductions of Japanese citizens, 48–49; in occupied areas, 64; in postwar settlements, 28; rapes of, as criminal acts, 64; recruitment of, 150–53, 154, 157; role of military, 149; and South Korea/Japan reconciliation efforts, 149; Supreme Court cases, 65, 146; as system of mass rape, 63–64; and U.S. House of Representatives, 49, 52, 65, 198; as victims of rape, 155; Violence Against Women in War Network Japan (VAWW-NET Japan), 63–64; Women's International War

Crimes Tribunal on Japan's Military Sexual slavery, 63–64

Comfort women, Chinese, 65, 154, 155, 157

Comfort women, Dutch, 64, 148, 155

Comfort women, East Timorese, 155

Comfort women, Indonesian, 154, 155

Comfort women, Japanese, 157

Comfort women, Korean, 146–48; in Burma, 156; claims against Japan, 31; estimates of number, 157; after Japanese annexation, 230; recruitment issues, 64, 154, 157; testimony, 155

Comfort women, Malaysian, 155

Comfort women, Philippino, 154, 155

Comfort women, Taiwanese, 155

Comfort women stations, 149–50, 154–57

Committee for the Cooperative Research of History between Japan and China, 92

Committee for Verifying the Truth of the Comfort Women Issue and the Nanjing Incident, 147

Committee of Parliamentarians to Think about Japan's Future and Historical Education, 66, 147, 152

Confucian world view, 42, 43

Contending Issues in Sino-Japanese Relations, 7, 90

Council of Worshipers' Representatives (Sukeisha Sodaikai), 123

"Crimes against peace", 74

"Cult of Victimization", 30

Cultural Revolution, 45, 183

D

Daishido, Tsunesyasu, 64, 147, 149–50, 151

Dando, Shigemitsu, 74

Deng Xiaoping: concerns about Japanese militarism, 126; economic takeoff under, 112; and nationalist sentiments, 180; "open door policy", 183; peace treaty with Japan, 45; relations with Japan, 47; use of nationalist demands, 183

The Devil's Gluttony, 68